America's most important conservation and recreation program will expire in less than a year unless Congress acts. For 52 years, the Land and Water Conservation Fund (LWCF) has protected national parks and open spaces in every corner of the United States. But in less than 52 weeks, it could be gone forever and along with it, future protection of the places we love.

LWCF has invested more than $2.4 billion over the past five decades to protect California's iconic outdoor places, open access for hunting, fishing, hiking, and other outdoor activities, and to build close to home parks. From community playgrounds and ballfields to California's iconic national parks, wildlife refuges, and historic sites, LWCF has protected places like Muir Woods, Joshua Tree, Lake Tahoe and the Santa Monica Mountains, the Pacific Crest Trail, Golden Gate National Recreation Area, Grasslands Wildlife Management Area, Baldwin Hills, Tuolumne River Parkway, and community parks, recreational fields, and trails in communities small and large in California.

California's $92 billion outdoor recreation industry is an economic powerhouse – supporting 691,000 jobs which generate $30.4 billion in wages and salaries and produces $6.2 billion annually in state and local tax revenue.

From Redwoods to Joshua Trees

With LWCF, Californians have been able to protect some of our most iconic redwood forests, which attract tourists from California and around the world. Redwood National Park celebrates its 40th Anniversary in 2018, and we need LWCF to continue this legacy of conserving the redwoods, so that future generations may experience the grandeur of a towering old-growth grove. In FY18, if funded LWCF will invest an additional $6 million in Redwood National Park. LWCF has also made strategic investments totaling over $65 million to protect the California desert, from exquiste desert tortoise habitat in the Mojave National Preserve to the unique historical site that is the Samuelson's Rocks in Joshua Tree National Park. In FY18, LWCF is slated to invest $1.4 million in the Mojave Trails National Monument. Our public lands in the desert provide a place for Californians to recreate by foot or jeep, and help drive a booming recreational economy.

"Investing in our parks and other public lands are at the heart of getting Californians out on the trail, whether alone or with families and friends. For more than 50 years, the Land and Water Conservation Fund (LWCF) has invested over $2 billion in California national, state and local parks, as well as in local recreation fields, swimming pools, bike paths and trails. These dollars improve our quality of life, economy, health and well-being."

Pacific Crest Trail

The Pacific Crest Trail (PCT) spans 1,700 miles running the length of California and is a growing destination for both day- and long-distance hikers. Over the last 16 years, approximately $31 million from LWCF has been used to acquire and permanently protect more than 20,000 acres along the PCT in California, Oregon, and Washington. The U.S. Forest Service ranked the Trinity Divide Project, a 10,500-acre in-holding along the PCT in northern California, as a national land protection priority. If funded in FY18, $5 million would support this purchase and enhance and protection of timber lands.

The Land and Water Conservation Fund (LWCF) has provided funding to help protect some of California's most special places and ensure recreational access for hunting, fishing and other outdoor activities. California has received approximately $2.447 billion in LWCF funding over the past five decades, protecting places such as the Lake Tahoe Basin, California Desert, Point Reyes National Seashore, Headwaters Forest, the San Diego and Don Edwards National Wildlife Refuges, the national forests of the Sierra Nevada.

Forest Legacy Program (FLP) grants are also funded under LWCF, to help protect working forests. The FLP cost-share funding supports timber sector jobs and sustainable forest operations while enhancing wildlife habitat, water quality and recreation. For example, the FLP contributed to places such as the Jenner Headlands in Sonoma County and Chalk Mountain in Humboldt County. The FLP assists states and private forest owners to maintain working forest lands through matching grants for permanent conservation easement and fee acquisitions, and has leveraged approximately $23 million in federal funds to invest in California's forests, while protecting air and water quality, wildlife habitat, access for recreation and other public benefits provided by forests.

LWCF state assistance grants have further supported hundreds of projects across California's state and local parks including the American River Parkway in Sacramento, Griffith Park in Los Angeles, and Colonel Allensworth State Historic Park in the Central Valley.

Economic Benefits

Active outdoor recreation is an important part of the California economy. The Outdoor Industry Association has found that active outdoor recreation supports $92 billion in consumer spending in California, 691,000 jobs across California which generate $30.4 billion in wages and salaries, and produces $6.2 billion annually in state and local tax revenue. Further, the U.S. Census reports that each year 7.4 million people hunt, fish, or enjoy wildlifewatching in California, contributing over $8 billion in wildlife recreation spending to the state economy.

Golden Gate National Recreation Area

Funding from LWCF, including $4.1 million in FY11, $5 million in FY10 and $4 million in FY09, was leveraged with funding from private donations and other sources to protect the 4,262 acre Rancho Corral de Tierra. Incorporating this land into the Golden Gate National Recreation Area created a new southern gateway into the park and helped connect the Bay Area Ridge Trail with the California Coastal Trail. The project also provided permanent protection of four Coastside watersheds—Denniston, San Vicente, Montara and Martini creeks and preserved critical habitat for unique and endangered plants and animals.

The Fiscal Year 2019 President's Budget:

The President's Fiscal Year 2019 Budget proposal would gut the Land and Water Conservation Fund, reducing the program's budget by over 100% from enacted levels. Under this proposal, no projects would be funded for federal land conservation at America's National Parks, National Forests, National Wildlife Refuges, and other public lands. State grant programs to support local recreation facilities, state parks, wildlife habitat, and other community conservation priorities would also be completely wiped out. Without robust LWCF funding in FY 2019, California's conservation and outdoor recreation needs could be put on hold or lost forever.

Our Land, Our Water, Our Heritage

AMERICA DEPENDS ON THE LAND AND WATER CONSERVATION FUND

HELP PROTECT AMERICA'S TREASURED LANDS, CLEAN WATER, AND OUR QUALITY OF LIFE BY SUPPORTING FULL FUNDING FOR THE LAND AND WATER CONSERVATION FUND

The Land and Water Conservation Fund is the nation's premier land conservation program that provides funds for:

- Recreational areas, trails, and waterways for paddling, hiking, biking, hunting, fishing, and wildlife watching
- Enhancing access to national parks, forests, wildlife refuges, and other public lands
- Preserving historic battlefields and cultural sites
- Safeguarding rivers, watershed, water supplies, and clean water
- Conserving working forests, farms, and ranches
- Preserving natural areas and wildlife habitat
- Creating and improving state and local parks
- Supporting local economies and jobs through increased outdoor recreation

From the Grand Canyon National Park to the Appalachian National Scenic Trail to our favorite neighborhood park or playground, the Land and Water Conservation Fund (LWCF) has helped protect America's most treasured places. Over the past five decades, it has touched every state, conserving national parks and forests, land by rivers, lakes and oceans, working forests, farms and ranches, fish and wildlife refuges, trails, and state and local parks.

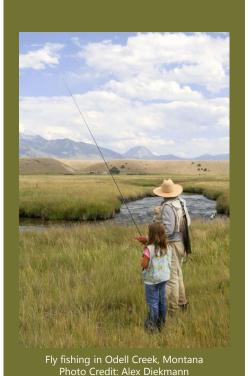

LWCF is a simple idea: to invest a small portion of federal offshore drilling fees towards protecting important land, water and recreation areas for all Americans. These are not taxpayer dollars. However, the promise of LWCF has been broken. Each year $900 million from offshore royalties is deposited in the LWCF account in the federal treasury — yet more than $20 billion of those funds have then been diverted elsewhere. Another obstacle is that Congress allowed LWCF to expire in 2015 after 50 years of success. It was reinstated within months and is now authorized through September 2018. It is now critical that LWCF be permanently reauthorized with full, dedicated funding.

Despite this uncertainty, LWCF has had positive conservation and recreation impacts throughout our country. Over its 50-year history, LWCF has protected land in every state and supported over 41,000 state and local park projects. The program enjoys strong bipartisan and popular support. A recent bipartisan poll found that an overwhelming majority - 82% - of voters support continuing to deposit fees from offshore oil and gas drilling into the LWCF. This broad support comes from every geographic region of the country, in red and blue states alike.

LWCF protects watersheds and drinking water supplies, preserves our national heritage, and conserves natural areas and open space for wildlife and recreation – all while providing sustainable, domestic jobs in urban and rural communities across America. Outdoor recreation, natural resource preservation, and historic preservation activities provide a powerful building block in our national economy that supports 9.4 million jobs and contributes a total of $1.06 trillion annually, according to the National Fish and Wildlife Federation. Whether it is close to home parks and trails or vacation destinations, LWCF provides places for all Americans to enjoy hunting, fishing camping, picnicking, climbing, hiking, paddling, backcountry skiing, mountain biking, wildlife viewing, and other outdoor activities.

Permanent reauthorization and full, dedicated funding will ensure high and consistent levels of funding for all parts of LWCF: state grants including the National Park Service State and Local program, the Forest Legacy Program and US Fish and Wildlife Service Section 6 grants as well as funding for national parks, national forests, national wildlife refuges and Bureau of Land Management lands.

Benefits of LWCF Investments:

- Conserves natural areas, wildlife habitat and open space from urban parks to large landscapes
- Improves access for sportsmen and recreationists on federal, state, local, and private lands and waters
- Stimulates local economies and jobs supporting tourism and outdoor recreation-sectors
- Preserves wetlands, forests and watersheds ensuring clean and adequate water supplies in the most cost-effective manner
- Streamlines federal land management by improving access, consolidating ownership, and reducing management and firefighting costs
- Builds rural partnerships to keep ranchers and farmers on the land, and promotes sustainable, working forests, while maintaining wildlife habitat and open space
- Protects treasured cultural and historical sites such as civil war battlefields commemorating our national heritage
- Provides state and local grants to support community parks, trails, recreational access sites and open spaces – promoting active, healthy lifestyles and gets kids and families outdoors

The LWCF Coalition supports permanent reauthorization and full, dedicated funding for the Land and Water Conservation Fund. We are comprised of conservation, recreation, business, and sportsmen's groups working together to support the LWCF program in order to meet America's conservation and recreation needs in the 21st Century. Visit www.lwcfcoalition.org for more information about LWCF in your state and how you can take action.

RE: Support for permanent reauthorization of LWCF

Dear Honorable Members of the California Congressional Delegation,

We, the undersigned California organizations and businesses, support the permanent reauthorization of the Land and Water Conservation Fund (LWCF) by Congress prior to the September 30 deadline.

For more than a half-century, LWCF, through partnerships with state and local governments as well as landowners, has maintained some of our country's most special places, expanded recreation opportunities and protected important fish and wildlife habitat. Now, LWCF, one of our nation's most important and successful conservation programs, is in danger of expiring. We are counting on your leadership to ensure that doesn't happen. We're calling on Congress to permanently reauthorize and fully fund this program, which is crucial to protecting America's great outdoors and wildlife heritage.

LWCF has provided funding to help protect some of California's most special places and ensure access to wildlife watching, hiking and other recreational outdoor activities for millions of Californians. California has received approximately $2.447 billion in LWCF funding over the past five decades, protecting places such as the Lake Tahoe Basin, Mojave Desert, Point Reyes National Seashore, Headwaters Forest, the San Diego and Don Edwards National Wildlife Refuges, and the national forests of the Sierra Nevada. LWCF state assistance grants have further supported hundreds of projects across California's state and local parks including the American River Parkway in Sacramento, Griffith Park in Los Angeles, and Colonel Allensworth State Historic Park in the Central Valley.

There was widespread, bipartisan support for LWCF when Congress approved it in 1965 to help develop and ensure access to outdoor recreation, preserve important historic sites and sustain wildlife populations. Grassroots support for the program and its goals has only grown in the last 52 years. The fund, at no cost to taxpayers, has helped establish playgrounds, neighborhood parks and hiking trails. Congress has chronically failed to appropriate the full $900 million authorized, resulting in more than $20 billion being diverted elsewhere. Congress should permanently reauthorize the Land and Water Conservation Fund and commit to fully funding it.
